This Week's News

Reading News: This week we are working on recounting stories, folktales, fables, and fairytales. Through this we are learning how to summarize main events of the story and understanding what the central message is, or moral, of a story. This week in grammar we are reviewing: nouns, verbs, adverb, adjectives, plural nouns, and irregular plural nouns.

Math News: In math, we are working on partitioning shapes into equal fractions. Through this we will learn about numerators, denominators, and unit fractions. This will lead into understanding fractions on the number line.

Science and Social Studies News: We have finished our unit on plants and animals, both classifying them and understanding how they react and change because of environmental changes. Now we will start our unit on the sun and the stars. In social studies we will be testing on the northeast region on Friday. Most students should have brought home a study guide on Thursday and their information packet and scrapbook on Friday. The following websites will help with the state location part of the test.
