This Week's News

Reading News: This week we are starting to learn about understanding Point of View in a story. This could be understanding who's point of view the story is in, from a narratives perspective or a character. Understanding what their point of view is in the story and if you agree with this point of view or not. In grammar we are going over comparatives and superlatives, these are adjectives or adverbs with and -er or -est ending.

Math News: In math, we are going to work on comparing fractions. This is still understanding fractions but also understanding which fractions are greater or less than others. We will also be working on using the greater than and less than symbols when comparing them.

Science and Social Studies News: In science we will be working on our matter unit. This will be understanding the different states of matter and how matter can change states. In social studies we will start our unit on economics. This will review needs, wants, consumer, producer. We will also go into scarcity and how units of money differ in the countries within North America.

Other News:

Our math iReady diagnosice will be January 10th and 11th. We have completed the reading diagnostic. Data will come home when we finish math.
