Director's Note

Welcome to Creekside High School's production of Rodgers and Hammerstein's Cinderella. I am so excited to have you share in the magic of this classic show.

Every year is a year of magic with Creekside Theatre and that was why I chose to theme this year as a "year of magic." In fall began with a little bit of the darker side of magic and now for our final large scale show of the year, we get to celebrate light magic.

Seven years ago, Creekside Theatre presented Cinderella on the Creekside stage and from that our troupe motto of "I've got the magic in me" sprouted. Since that time, we've transformed that motto into "we've got the magic in we." The beauty of theatre and our Creekside theatre family is that it's all about us a team. As you watch the show tonight, you'll see beautiful costumes and backdrops and get to experience spectacular performances but what you don't get to see is the incredible amount of teamwork that went into it all. To say I'm proud of our cast and crew is an understatement. They've worked tirelessly from learning intricate dance moves to painting every nook and cranny of the set.

I really want to give thanks to the students who not only hold performance or technical roles, but who put in extra time to help clean up the auditorium and arrange all of the set pieces backstage at the end of rehearsals so that the stage is ready for other events and to all of the students who worked so hard on the tiny details of the set and the show in general. Thank you to cast and crew members who pulled double duties but teaching the dances and vocals. Thanks to my sister, Ms. Julie, for her choreography, to my dad, also known as Mr. Fixel, for his craftsmanship and time at home spent giving our set its extra special touches, and to my mom, Ava Fixel, for arranging our tuxedos and cast party. Thank you to our amazing team of parents who spent Saturdays with us building a beautiful set. We are so happy to have so many people as part of our "Cinderella Village."

While Cinderella is a classic fairytale that could easily be looked at as a children's story, there is quite a bit of depth in the lyrics of this musical. As a society we often tend to travel the day without truly taking notice of all the great things around us, and we tend to forget that we are capable of doing the things that sometimes we think we can't do. "Impossible things are happening every day" has been my selected motto since announcing the show; I feel these lyrics go beyond "fairy magic" and are more about noticing how each day we can accomplish the things that may seem impossible to us.

As a director and teacher, I truly believe in not only creating great theatre but in also sharing magic and sunshine with others. I try to bring sunshine and positivity into the lives of my students each day with my class and theatre mottos. The final words of the show are "there is music in you," and each and every one of us has found a little magic within ourselves through this production. For me, my students are my music; I've found that I feel most myself with Creekside Theatre and most me with all that we do together. I know I've got the magic in me, but there can be no magic without the magic in we.

To you, our audience, we as cast and crew have a message for you. We want each and every one of you out there to know that there is something special inside of you.

I hope that our show will make you smile and will leave you believing in the impossible and in the music that is within you.
